

Workshop

Considering Cultural Complexity in Agent-Based Modeling

23. October 2015

Studierenden Service Center S37

a.r.t.e.s.
Graduate School for the Humanities Cologne
Graduiertenschule der Philosophischen Fakultät

9:30-9:45	Welcome
9:45-10:30	Challenges for integrating 'culture' in "Out of Africa" - agent-based models Ericson Hölzchen, Research Institute Senckenberg
10:30-11:15	The variability selection and the evolution of human cultural behaviour Iza Romanowska, University of Southampton Coffee Break
11:30-12:15	The impact of social learning on subsistence strategy shifts Xavier Rubio-Campillo, Barcelona Supercomputing Center
12:15-13:00	The role of symbolic interaction and learning in the process of cultural evolution: an Agent-Based Modeling approach Peter Froncek, George Mason University Lunch Break
14:00-14:45	Incorporating culture in the ABM of mobile hunter-gatherers Martin Solich, University of Cologne
14:45-15:30	Playing games, not asking questions: using ABM as elicitation tools in rural Cameroon David Zeitlyn, University of Oxford Coffee Break
15:45-16:30	Agent based culture? Virginia & Frank Dignum, Delft University/ University Utrecht
16:30-17:15	Ethnography of a criminal network Martin Neumann, University Koblenz
17:15-17:45	Discussion

Organization

Martin Solich (solich@posteo.de)
Stephan Henn (stephan.henn@uni-koeln.de)
Information: <http://abmculture.uni-koeln.de>

SfB 806
Our Way to Europe

